THE DISTRICT CONVENTIONS

At 11:30 the meeting adjourned for one hour.

The Fourth District met again this afternoon and deliberated until after 2 o'clock on the Kaili matter. The final result was that Stewart, Sims and Holt were dropped, and Judge W. L. Wilcox and Dr. Huddy were elected to represent that precinct in the Territorial convention.

The debate on the matter was "fast and furious." During its continuance several suggestions were made, but all were finally shelved for one advanced by Colonel Iaukea, who advocated throwing out the late candidates and putting in men who had not been connected with the affair at all.

When the meeting was called to order Frank Pahlia reported that he had made a demand of K. R. G. Wallace for the Kaili ballots, in accordance with the instructions of the forenoon, but that gentleman had positively refused to give them up. He asked for further instructions.

Captain Cluney, who was one of the judges at Kaili, was present in the room, and was asked to explain the trouble out there, which he did, taking care to affirm certain things that seemed to show crookedness on the part of the other two judges.

Mr. Achi made a speech in favor of electing two of the three men voted on by the Kaili people, and offered the names of W. L. Sims and J. L. Holt. He believed that those two gentlemen tried to do the fair thing in the election, and that the unfairness was on the other side.

Colonel Iaukea regretted that the thing should have come up at all. He favored clean abolition and such must be had if the Republican party ever expected to gain anything from the native vote. News of the scandal had already reached Wai'alea, and the natives were watching it with more than ordinary interest. The speaker, who was friendly with the three gentlemen who had run on Saturday, felt that the convention should ignore all three, and put in men not concerned in the affair at all. He would nominate Judge W. L. Wilcox for one, and would like for somebody else to nominate another man.

Mr. Hughes agreed with Mr. Iaukea. Mr. Farmer also agreed with Mr. Iaukea, and nominated E. C. Winston as the second delegate.

Mr. Achi insisted on his point that the delegate should be selected from the number presented by the people of Kaili. He said that Wilcox and Winston were good men, but had not shown themselves popular enough to get before the voters of the precinct.

Mr. Sims was called upon to explain about the meetings held at Kaili in an effort to compromise the difficulties and did so.

Mr. Hughes moved for an executive session.

Colonel Iaukea strongly objected to this, stating that the convention had nothing to hide, and that the discussion should be open and above board.

There being no second to Hughes' motion it went by default.

Frank Archer agreed with Colonel Iaukea that new men should be put in.

Frank Pahlia thought two of the three of Saturday's candidates should be elected, as they were evidently the most popular with the people of that district.

Mr. Holt made a speech in which he withdrew, and recommended the appointment of new men.

Dr. George H. Huddy was nominated, and the name of Mr. Winston withdrawn.

The election followed and Huddy and Wilcox were declared delegates.

The Kaili matter was pressed by Mr. Sims, who this morning submitted a written request to the convention that it be taken up and thoroughly investigated.

General Baron Tachima is the principle officer who is thus honored, his decoration being the Second Order of the Rising Sun, with a gift of Y. 1,500.

GAMBLING IN JAPAN.

Vice Said to be Prevalent Among All Classes.

The practice of card playing with stakes appears to be widely prevalent among all classes of Japanese, says the Japan Times, and the authorities are said to be almost at a loss to devise means of suppressing so general an evil. Some are inclined to think that the Government is responsible, to a certain extent, for the creation of the present state of affairs; for while the lower classes, as a rule, are closely watched and badgered over the practice of gambling, the actions of the upper class folks are left comparatively unmolested, if not actually encouraged at times. It will be in the memory of some that a few years ago a gentleman holding the presidency of the highest tribunal in the realm was found among a gambling party that had been raided and arrested by the police. This is simply one instance of thousands of undetected cases, but the revelation is sufficient to show how thoroughly gambling permeates the upper as well as the lower orders of the Japanese social fabric. Of course the police have great difficulty in detecting offenses of that kind, especially with regard to those committed by men of the better sort, but so long as the law exists it must be enforced.

It is stated that the Government proposes to impose a tax on all cards which may be used for the purpose of gambling, as this is expected to have the effect of at once more or less checking the practice, and of yielding a respectable revenue to the treasury.

The question that occurs to one's mind on reading this proposal will be, how does the Government expect to discriminate between cards which are used for gambling, and the large class of cards used for inoffensive amusements? If discrimination is not wisely enforced the measure will have the effect of unfairly taxing people for indulging in harmless recreation. Moreover, such a measure will inevitably be taken to mean a tacit consent to gambling on the part of the Government, if it leaves a terra—as it is called in gambling parlance—in the shape of a tax.

MID-WEEK DRUNKS NOW

HIG FIRMS CHANGE PAY DAY FROM SATURDAY.

Judge Wilcox Therefore Has Small Monday Criminal Lists—Omachu and Her Baby Appear Again

Wednesday and Thursday are the drunk days in the police court now. The reason therefor show how police lists are effected by pay days. A number of large local firms have changed their days for paying employees from Saturday to Tuesday or Wednesday and thereby they have quite unintentionally given Judge Wilcox a change from the long criminal lists of Monday mornings to much shorter lists and lengthy lists of cases for Wednesday and Thursday. Drunkenness was the charge in twelve cases and convictions this morning, and $2 and costs was the fine each time.

Ah Tim and Lee Yam were each fined $50 for having opium in possession. The cases of three other Chinamen arrested on similar charges, went over till tomorrow.

Omachu, the Japanese woman arrested for larceny in the second degree, was in court again today. She is the woman whose baby held the center of the stage yesterday. After hearing all evidence in the case Judge Wilcox decided that she had not appropriated the $15 she was accused of stealing, and she went home in triumph, with the baby still lifting up its voice by way of showing suitable appreciation. Robert Linehan, the young man charged with having stolen $40, was also discharged as innocent.

The case of the woman charged with practicing kahunism went over for trial this afternoon.

M'BRYDE ISSUES BONDS

written to Col. George Macfarlane about the matter, and he, after looking over the financial field, had replied that if they could not be placed in Honolulu, he could place them in the United States.

The resolution authorizing the bond issue was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Mr. Kinney reported in addition that a report had been received from Messrs. L. Wight and Captain C. J. Campbell, showing that the company's harbor at Eleele could easily be made such a harbor as would enable the company to receive its own supplies and ship its sugar to and from the Coast direct, and that a proposition had been made by a responsible party to build ships and do their carrying at a very reasonable rate. So that they would not have to ship any of their sugar to Honolulu, except such part as would go around the Horn.
